

School Building Project Gets The $2M Needed Boost

By Sue Aucella Deacon

The $11.72 million school building program quietly became a $13.72 million program Monday night, when a special town meeting authorized additional funding for the project with barely any dissension.

Townpeople voted to increase the project for renovating the town's secondary schools by $2 million with a standing vote of 371 to 37 on Article 1 on the special warrant, taken after only 20 minutes of discussion.

Town officials unanimously urged town meeting to approve the increase so the project could be carried out as designed and bid, and not have to be redesigned and sent out to bid again.

The vote amended Article 65 of last year's annual town meeting, which authorized the project, increasing the sum that will be borrowed to fund the project, not to exceed $13 million.

The article also stipulates that the state School Building Assistance Bureau (SBAB) must fund 50 percent of the project. The town manager said the SBAB staff has agreed to recommend funding of the additional $2 million to the bureau, which will vote on the matter June 23.

Article 2 on the special warrant was withdrawn after the vote. That article would have authorized the town to redesign the three-part project, eliminating portions as necessary to keep it to its original $11 million budget.

"It really wouldn't be a town meeting if we didn't have a school bonding question," Finance Committee Chairman Ruth Dunbar joked. But she then warned that further delays in the project would cost the town "a tremendous amount of money."

"If this is not approved, the project would be so severely altered that we would have to go out to bid again, at a cost of $100,000 a month in inflation, and we would be getting nothing for it," Dunbar told the voters.

Selectmen Chairman Norma Gammon said the selectmen "recommended very strongly" that voters approve the article, and Planning Board member David Gravalles added that his board also recommended approval.

And School Committeeman Donald Robb, who is also a member of the school building committee, said support for the article would be "the only way we will insure the continuation of the school building program, and the quality education that is a hallmark of the town of Andover."

In reply to a string of questions from Atty. Philip Sullivan of Punchard Avenue, Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark said the additional $2 million would cost the town approximately $142,000 per year, translating into 50 cents on the $66 per $1,000 tax rate.

The total $13 million project would add approximately $5 per year to the tax rate, the manager said, under the old equalized valuation rate, not the new revaluation rate.

If the project is funded with a ten-year bond issue, at a nine and one-half percent interest rate — the ceiling rate authorized by town meeting — it will cost Andover a total of $12 million, from a state total of $19.7 million, Clark indicated.

If the project is funded over a 20-year issue, at the same interest rate, it will cost the town a total of $16.8 million, out of a statewide total of $25.9 million, the manager added.

But Selectman Edward Harris emphasized that town officials expect to sell the bond issue at a lower rate than nine and one-half percent, which is the "top figure."

Clark also told Atty. Sullivan that construction could be expected to begin on the project before the end of this month, while Building Committee Chairman Kenneth Gropper assured him that town meeting would not be asked for more funds in the future.

The building committee now has a contractor, the low bidder on the project, and bid prices are "fixed prices," Gropper explained. "Contractor's prices do not go up or down."

Gravalles To Head Planners

David Gravalles was named Planning Board chairman Tuesday night when the planners elected new officers. Andrew Girdwood was elected vice chairman, and Jerry Greer, secretary.

Margaret Bradshaw came aboard as the newest member of the five-member board Tuesday night; she was appointed to replace former chairman Frank McBride, who resigned as of Monday night. Bradshaw is a member of the League of Women Voters who has taken an active interest in planning issues and attended many of the board's meetings.

Gravalles said he had some reservation about accepting the chairman's position because he has been on the board only since last August: "When I think of a planning board chairman, I think of a Peggy Keck — someone fully versed in the lore and history of the town," he commented. "It's a big job."

Girdwood, who was not present, had told the board he would accept the vice chairmanship only with the understanding that he would not become the next chairman if Gravalles should step down.

The new chairman indicated that the board will have to "pull hard" this summer to handle its workload without the help of a Community Development and Planning director or a town manager. Director Rhys Kear resigned as of last week, while Manager Jared S.A. Clark will leave at the end of the month.

Building Inspector Sam DeSalvo, acting as Community Development director until a new director is appointed, was present Tuesday night.

Choral Society Plans Workshop

The North Parrish Choral Society announces the fifth consecutive year of its Singers Workshop, a summer music camp for boys and girls, ages 8-15. Summer home of the North Parrish Treble Chorus, the workshop meets the third week in August, the 17-21, at the Union Congregational Church in North Reading center, from 8:45 until 12:10 in the morning. Open to the public, students who attend the workshop can elect to audition for Treble Chorus in their 1981-1982 concert season. Slated for next year's season is an active concert schedule which includes a performance at the Methuen Music Hall October 9, as well as TV and radio appearances.

In its years of service to young people in classical music, the workshop has become well-known for its high standards of musical achievement and instruction. Staffed by professional musicians under music director and founder, Marie Stultz, this year's workshop promises an exciting repertoire of new music, with a public concert at the workshop's conclusion. Ms. Stultz is founder of the North Parrish Treble Chorus, music director for the North Parrish Choral Society, and co-music director of the Old North Church, Marblehead. She is an active composer and conductor with eleven years experience in Music Education. She currently teaches voice and composition privately.

The workshop is designed to improve the young singer's experience in music by offering courses in voice, theory, music appreciation and choral repertoire. Students who enjoy singing and would like an exciting week of music should seriously consider attending the workshop. Because of limited openings, candidates should apply immediately.

Singers Workshop will also offer a week-long session for adults in the surrounding area. The workshop is open to any singer in all four parts, that has had some choral experience. The workshop meets the third week in August, the 17-21, at the Union Congregational Church in North Reading center, from 7:30 until 9:30 each evening. It will conclude with a short concert on Friday evening at the close of the workshop.

Led by both Richard and Marie Stultz, the session will emphasize choral repertoire, music reading and theory, and music history. Slated at this week's workshop will be a number of pieces of early music as well as the Collegium Regale of Herbert Howells, planned for performance at the Methuen Music Hall, Oct. 9. Adults that participate are welcome to join the senior choral society in the fall.

Words Of Thanks For Manager

Selectmen Chairman Norma Gammon opened the final session of 1981 town meeting with warm words of thanks for departing Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark, and townspeople seconded her praise with a standing ovation.

The chairman thanked Clark, who leaves his position June 30, for "three years of tireless service." His efforts, Gammon said, "carried us through" two years of the state tax cap and Proposition 2½. And she noted that town meeting showed its confidence in Clark's management last week by voting through a $12 million town budget in "less than eight minutes."

"We wish you the best," Gammon told the manager. "We know IBM is getting the best." Clark will join IBM as a marketing representative.

The manager in turn took the podium to thank the town, praising town officials as well as the town meeting form of government as "a leveling and stabilizing influence" on officials.

"Andover has truly been a peak in my career," Clark told the voters. "The opportunity to serve the public is truly a privilege — and serving in Andover has certainly been a privilege in my life."

Positions Filled By Clark

Selectmen Monday night approved a long list of appointments and reappointments made by the town manager, as Manager Jared S.A. Clark is attempting to fill as many vacancies as possible before he leaves his position at the end of the month.

Margaret Bradshaw has been appointed to the Planning Board, while Andrew Girdwood has been reappointed; Martha Dares, Hooks K. Johnston, Jr. and Edward Lenoe have been named to the Conservation Commission.

Dr. Steven H. Loring has been named to the Board of Health, and Richard D. Lindsay, D.V.M., has been reappointed inspector of animals.

S. Joseph Hoffman and Sue C. Tucker have been reappointed to the Development and Industrial Commission, and Rachel Garcia, to the Design Advisory Committee.

Robert Butler has been reappointed a trustee of Memorial Hall Library; Phillip Sullivan, a trustee of the Towle Fund; and John J. Lewis, Veteran's Service Agent.

Police Chief James Johnson was appointed Keeper of the Lockups, and James Deyermund, Forrest H. Noyes, Jr. and Eugene A. Zalla, Jr. were appointed constables.

Finally, James L. Bamford was named superintendent of insect and pest control.

Committee To Review Applications

The town manager has appointed a five-member committee to review applications for the position of director of Community Development and Planning to replace Rhys Kear, who resigned last week.

The committee consists of David Gravallese of the Planning Board, Joseph Madden of the Board of Health, Martha Dares of the Conservation Commission, Public Works Director Robert McQuade, and Building Director Sam DeSalvo. Each represents a board or department that works closely with the Community Development director; DeSalvo is now acting director.

Their job will be to select roughly 12 resumes from the 27 that Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark has culled from 90 that were submitted to him. The committee will then make their recommendation to the acting town manager, who will interview the candidates.

Clark said he "doubts" that he will be involved in the interviewing, since the manager himself is leaving town service as of June 30. The department directorship is a manager's appointment, approved by the selectmen.

Senior Citizens Lunch Program

The regular Senior Citizens Lunch Program will end with the school year on Friday, June 19. The Summer Lunch Program will begin on Monday, June 29, and end on Friday, Aug. 14.

Summer lunches will be served at 12 noon at the West Elementary School. Cost for the lunch is only 50¢. Reservations must be made in advance by calling the Senior Center at 475-1431.

later than 10 a.m. on the day you wish to attend.

Home delivered meals are available to Andover residents age 60 and older who are unable to prepare their own meals or travel to the daily lunch program. The cost for this service is 75¢ per meal. The cost of the home delivered meal will increase to $1 on July 1 to cover transportation costs. Call 475-

Receives Police Officers Award

Honored

Andover Patrolman William MacKenzie, was one of five municipal officers chosen to receive the 1981 "Police Officers Award," a statewide recognition program sponsored by the Massachusetts Bankers Association, at a special awards ceremony held at The Pillar House, Newton.

Purpose of the program is to acknowledge state and municipal police officers whose work in the bank crime investigatory field is judged to be most effective and outstanding. MacKenzie was presented with a cash award of $500 by the association.

MacKenzie was honored for his actions during an attempted holdup in July 1980 at the Lawrence Savings Bank on North Main Street, Andover. He was on duty at the bank when two masked men entered through the front entrance carrying hand guns. MacKenzie took cover behind a table and waited until the suspects were close enough not to endanger the safety of customers or bank employees. Officer MacKenzie and the suspects exchanged gun shots at close range, with the policeman twice wounding one of the suspects. The men escaped, but were later arrested at Boston Hospital where one of the men was being treated for gunshot wounds.

Prior to joining the police force, MacKenzie served on the Andover Fire Department for four years. He graduated from the Massachusetts Police Academy in 1980, after which he joined the Andover Police Department. MacKenzie also served in Vietnam for 18 months with the 173rd Airborne as a paratrooper. He resides in Andover.

The Massachusetts Bankers Association is comprised of 128 member banks, or 94 percent of all commercial banks in the state.

Sidewalk Bazaar Plans Set

Many activities have taken place on Main Street over the years, but none have become as popular as the Annual Sidewalk Bazaar sponsored by the Center Merchants. It all started back in 1962 when the merchants came up with an idea to increase sales and traffic downtown.

Today along with the merchants, many Andover-based, non-profit and non-political groups are invited by the merchants to join with them on the sidewalks to take advantage of the many activities that bring shoppers to Main Street. It has become a real fun time two-day event with something for everyone. Carnival rides and booths and the merchants bargain tables. To date, the following non-profit groups have registered to participate: The Twilight Twirlers with penny candy; Shawsheen Village Women with Homemade bakery; South Church Women with hot dogs and soda; the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority with hot dogs and soda; the B'Nai Brith with a Bakery sale; Andona Society and Snow cones; Council of Aging with Bakery items; Academy Manor Nursing Home, ceramics and knitted goods; Andover Bible Chapel, Bible Computer quiz; Andover Historical Society, historical books, maps, samplers. Sandy Brown, Chairman of the event is predicting great weather and an all time best promotion.

On view at the Art Alive! Gallery, 200 Merrimack St., Lowell, is "A Midsummer Night's Dream: Works of Fantasy." Through July 7, Monday through Saturday, 10 to 4.

Street Acceptance Blocked

The effort of eight families to have their street accepted as a public way by town meeting was successfully blocked by one abutter Monday night, when voters decided not to accept section one of Whispering Pines Way.

Abutter John Doyle of 40 Reservation Road warned town meeting that the street was "unlike the other easy street acceptances" they had approved earlier. Doyle persuaded voters to disapprove Article 71 with a standing vote of 180 to 187 on what was perhaps the liveliest issue of the evening.

On a recount requested by an attorney representing the Whispering Pines families, voters took a stonger stand against the acceptance, with a vote of 197 to 164. Article 72, seeking acceptance of section two of the same road, was then withdrawn.

The road serves a subdivision built in 1967.

During a dramatic speech, Doyle said Whispering Pines Way is in violation of a number of state and town "laws and rules and regulations" because the road pavement is not located in the center of the right of way.

As a result, he said, snow is plowed onto his neighboring property, and trees have been cut from his property and power cables have been placed on his property without his "knowledge or permission," along with a litany of other problems.

Explaining that 1970 town meeting had denied the street acceptance, Doyle maintained that nothing had changed on "the town's most notorious and illegal street" since then, except that the road surface had deteriorated due to a lack of maintenance.

"I am sympathetic with my neighbors in the Whispering Pines subdivision," he added. "I am not a lone obstructionist — I consider them fellow victims." The "unsavory mess" of the street should not be "unloaded" on the town, Doyle concluded, because it is "a thoroughly unacceptable way."

But Clive Fazioli, who called himself a spokesman for the families who live "on that deplorable street called Whispering Pines Way," urged voters to accept the street because the residents have "reached an impasse."

"We are peaceful souls who want to live in peace with all of our neighbors, and Mr. Doyle," Fazioli said. "The street has been laid out correctly, it has been laid out by the selectmen — we are here to ask for your help."

Selectman Edward Harris added that the street had been "laid out in desperation by the board of selectmen — we feel a long enough time has gone by. We feel it is time, way past time, in the interests of the people who live on this street, that all of these people can be taken care of by the town."

Pointing out that the problem is "getting to be ancient history," Harris broke up the audience when he added that "the people responsible for (the street) may soon, in the near future, be dead."

And Atty. Andrew Caffrey, Jr., representing the Whispering Pines families, explained that the electric company is "willing to come in at a moment's notice and move the (power) cables" off Doyle's land. Doyle, however, has refused to let the company on his property, Caffrey said.

The street is constructed to the town's standards, even though the pavement is off-center. Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark indicated. The Planning Board has the authority to waive town regulations "when it sees fit," the manager said, and the board waived the right-of-way requirements for the street "eight or nine years ago. It is in its proper legal form for acceptance."

But the street that Doyle dubbed "Desperation Drive" failed to win the town's acceptance. "I thought this was laid out by the selectmen," Moderator James Doherty cracked at one point. "It looks like it's been laid out by a lot of people."

The "easy street acceptances" approved by the voters with no problem Monday night included Island Way, Redgate Drive, Skopelos Circle, Apple Blossom Road, Langley Lane, Wellington Circle ("I thought that was in Medford," Doherty joked), and Lincoln Circle East Extension. The latter made it by a hair: Atty. Helen Comeau reported that necessary legal documents were obtained only 10 minutes before the meeting was called to order.

Streets withdrawn from consideration because they were not laid out by the selectmen were Alonesos Way, Smithshire States Extension, Bristol Lane, Copely Drive, Waverly Road, and Yardley Road.

Some courses are limited in numbers, so don't delay in registering in the courses of your choice.

The Quincy Market trip scheduled for June 15 has been opened to those under 60

There is still some space on the Kennedy Library trip June 24. This trip includes lunch at the Harbor Lights Restaurant plus a personally guided tour of the library by Dave Powers—and all for $11.

The first in a series of travelogues will be given at The Haven June 22 with Ina Jowett taking everyone on a tour of Scotland. Watch for future trips by chair—reported in this column.

This year there will be a summer lunch program at West Elementary School. Reservations must be made the day before by calling the center and lunch will be served at 12 noon. Program commences June 29 and ends Aug. 14.

The next session of the mini-clinic will be held at the Ballardvale Church Tuesday, June 16, from 2 to 4. Appointments should be made by calling the Andover Health Department.

To Convert Bradlee To Housing Units

Ballardvale's historic Bradlee School, after sitting vacant for 20 years, will no longer be a "blight" on that community, but will be converted into multi-family housing with the blessing of town meeting.

Voters approved the sale of the school to Francis P. Reilly for $2,900 with a vote of 370 to 255 under Article 66 Monday night, the final session of the annual town meeting. For a while, however, it looked as though town meeting might send town officials back to the drawing board to come up with another plan for the school.

Last year, annual town meeting authorized the sale of the school, which the town manager called "a blight" on Ballardvale. A committee made up of Historical Commission members and Vale residents recommended selling the school to Reilly after studying three bids submitted for the school.

Reilly plans to renovate the interior of the building, built during the 1890s, into eight living units, while preserving the exterior of the school and leaving open space around the grounds.

Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark explained that although the other bidders offered more for the property — Charles Mates Realty bid $36,000 and John S. Dugger, Jr., $25,000 — Reilly had proposed investing more into the building than the others — $500,000 to the highest bidder's $270,000.

"We determined that over the long term, the property with the highest capital investment would yield more to the town, would return more taxes to the town, than the higher short-term bids," the manager indicated.

The selectmen, Planning Board, and Finance Committee all supported the article, but one resident proposed an amendment that would send the sale issue back to the selectmen and manager for further study.

Brian Emmons of Henderson Avenue moved that the building be sold to one of the three bidders at the selectmen's discretion, without further town meeting action, so the town would have "a little clearer picture of the ultimate use of the building, and set up certain parameters under which people could bid. Then we might get better bids."

Emmons' amendment was prompted by remarks from Jeff Mathias of Charles Mates Realty, who said Reilly's proposal for eight units would result in condominiums selling for "better than $87,000," or apartments renting for "better than $1,400 a month."

The criteria for bidding had specified that the housing should serve young families and retired couples, Mathias said, suggesting that few families in those categories would be able to afford housing in Reilly's building.

But Selectmen Chairman Norma Gammon, who sat on the committee that recommended the sale to Reilly, responded somewhat angrily that the committee "did take our time and review these proposals very carefully."

"A year ago the town said to sell that building, and we have done the best we could to put it back on the tax rolls," Gammon said, adding that Charles Mates Realty had failed to provide complete financial information to the committee upon request. "I am a little bit annoyed to be sitting at town meeting and have us taken pot shots at."

Committee member Sherron Heller of Tewksbury Street added that Ballardvale has "been waiting 25 years for something to be done — we can't wait any longer."

Pamela St. John of School Street said she found Emmons' proposed amendment "confusing" because it would give the selectmen the final decision and "they've done that — the work has been done. I don't think this amendment is necessary."

And veteran voter Thayer Warshaw of Clark Road said he would go against his usual custom and vote against the amendment as well, "only on the faith that the committees have done their job well. I am disappointed that we did not get more information in advance," he added, "but I am willing to take their word on this one."

Emmons' amendment was then defeated, and a standing vote taken on the original article as moved by Gammon.

There were 57 Andover and North Andover residents among the 425 seniors participating in the Commencement Exhibition of Phillips Academy's 203rd year today.

Graduation festivities began Wednesday evening, June 10, when the deans of the academy's six residential dormitory clusters hosted receptions for their boarding and day student seniors and their families. A buffet supper was served by the school afterwards in Flagstaff Court. The evening closed with a candle-lit ecumenical service in Cochran Chapel.

The Commencement Exhibition began this morning at 10 a.m. when the Clan McPherson Bagpipe Band led the Commencement procession. The trustees, faculty and seniors proceeded through the Elm Arch.

There was initiation of new cum Laude Society members, whose names will be released later.

After music by the Brass Ensemble and awarding of special Commencement prizes to seniors, Headmaster Theodore R. Sizer delivered the Commencement address. Melville Chapin, president of the trustees, awarded diplomas symbolically to the class officers. After the ceremony, the new graduates hurried to form the traditional senior circle on the lawn in front of the Addison Gallery and Cochran Chapel and passed around the individual diplomas which Headmaster Sizer distributed as his last official act as headmaster.

Sizer will be leaving the academy June 30 to undertake a study of high schools for the National Association of Secondary School Principals and the Commission on Education Issues of the National Association of Independent Schools. He will be replaced in July by Phillips Academy's

Standing Ovation Accompanies Honors

Central Valedictorian Stephen Paradis

Stephen Paradis is quick to name other outstanding students in the 1981 graduating class at Central Catholic High School.

But the Andover Valedictorian, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Andre J. Paradis, 89 Abbot St., is the one who captured six of 17 medals, the Michael Garvey Award for outstanding athlete, and the Headmaster's Scholarship during commencement ceremonies in Lawrence May 30.

He was asked to remain at the podium as he in turn accepted the Gold Medal for General Excellence (for the highest scholastic average over four years), the Silver Medal for Social Studies, the Gold Medal for English, the Gold Medal for Science, the Gold Medal for Mathematics and the Legion of Honor Medal.

Paradis, who received a standing ovation from his classmates and their families when he received the Garvey Award, gave credit to the "discipline" at Central, during his valedictory address.

He said that the additional discipline at the all-male school teaches the students to look at near-term goals as a means toward greater achievements, rather than simply as an end in themselves.

He said the school's academic atmosphere allows a student to be himself, without having to "worry about your projected image."

He also expressed a "pride for Central Catholic," a fraternal feeling that one would have to experience to understand.

Co-captain of the cross country, indoor and outdoor track teams this year, Paradis was also president of the National Honor Society at Central. He has been chairman of the Youth Council at St. Augustine's Church, and the voting youth member of the St. Augustine's Church Council. He is also a member of the youth program, "Genesis."

Paradis will be attending Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he will be an engineering major. He had previously graduated from St. Augustine's school.

Other Andover graduates from Central include: Jeffrey Neil Berube, Edward C. Ferragamo, Joseph Matthew Gleason, Paul Henry Kaminski, Sandor Alexander Nagy and Gregory P. Taylor. Geoffrey Lawrence Ouellette, formerly of Andover and now of Salisbury, had attended West Jr. High.

Resident Receives Fred B. Cole Memorial Award

Thomas J. Glynn Jr. of Andover was the recipient of the Fred B. Cole Memorial Austin Spirit Award at Austin Preparatory School's recent Awards Night. The award was established in memory of Fred B. Cole, for over 50 years a sports writer for the Lawrence Eagle-Tribune. The award was presented by Austin's Director of Student Activities George M. Miller and Mrs. Evelyn Cole, wife of the late reporter.

Glynn is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas

J. Glynn St. of 22 Strawberry Hill Road. He participated in football, basketball, and track during his sophomore and junior years at Austin. Since he was a sophomore transfer student, he was declared ineligible for sports by the M.I.A.A. and therefore unable to participate as a senior, but he attended almost every football and hockey game, and ran the pre-season conditioning program for basketball. He also assisted the varsity basketball coach during tryouts, worked with varsity players during practices and scouted varsity games during the season.

Glynn has been a member of Austin's Student Council for the past two years, and was elected to the National Honor Society last fall. He is a member of the school's Honors Help Club, Weightlifting Club and Orientation Committee. Glynn has received a scholarship from Fairfield University where he will study biology this fall.

In presenting the award, Director of Student Activities George M. Miller quoted an article which had appeared this year in "The Legend," Austin's school newspaper:

"In the early years of Austin's sports program, when very few people had heard and even fewer cared about this small Catholic school in Reading, Fred Cole was a faithful and enthusiastic supporter of our efforts here.

This fact did not surprise anyone who knew Fred, however, for he dedicated his entire professional life to the encouragement and support of schoolboy athletics throughout the north suburban area. Thanks to the notice they received from Fred's writing, hundreds—probably thousands—of young athletes were inspired to work harder, sacrifice more, and 'hang in there' to reach their team and individual goals."

Glynn is the first recipient of the Cole Award. Miller pointed out that Fred Cole would have been proud of Thomas Glynn and of what he had accomplished in his three years at Austin Prep.

In her hair she wore ribbons of stephanotis and carried a bouquet of gardenias, stephanotis and ferns.

Susan Schettino of Waltham was maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Gail Straub of Newburyport and Monica Kent of Chelmsford. All wore dresses of yellow, orange and green printed chiffon and carried bouquets of roses and daisies in deep yellow.

The best man was Robert Frenier of Manchester, and ushers were Edward A. Leavitt of New York City and Roger, Cassin of Brookline.

Leavitt, who will keep her own name, graduated from the Northfield School and the University of Michigan, received an MA degree in psychology from Tufts University, and Ed. D. degree in Humanistic and Behavioral Studies from Boston University at the 1981 Commencement.

Clark Has Goals Before Leaving

THE TOWNSMAN, JUNE 11, 1981

Now that 1981 annual town meeting is history, departing Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark has a number of priorities he hopes to concentrate on before he leaves his position at the end of the month.

The manager said Friday he hopes to attain final approval from the state School Building Assistance Bureau (SBAB) for the $13 million — formerly $11 million — school building program to renovate the Project Funding Next Summer

The school building program for renovating Andover's secondary schools, boosted from $11 to $13 million by town meeting Monday night, will not go out for permanent funding this summer as the town manager had planned.

Instead, Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark is recommending that bonds be issued to fund the project next summer, when interest rates may be lower.

Clark believes the town may be able to obtain a seven to seven and one-quarter percent rate a year from now; rates are currently hovering around nine percent. Although 1980 town meeting authorized the town to go up to nine and one-half percent, Clark said he would rather hold out for the lower rate because a higher interest rate could add up to "several million" dollars to the town's indebtedness for the project.

The three-part project is currently being funded with bond anticipation notes, as it will be until permanent bonds are issued. The bonds may be sold in 10-, 15- or 20-year issues.

town's secondary schools. With that accomplished, he hopes to see final contracts signed with the contractors, Peabody Construction and Meola Construction.

In addition, Clark wants to see all the i's dotted and t's crossed on the 15-year cable television contract with Rollins Cablevision of Atlanta. Selectmen voted to award the franchise to that company last month.

And the manager wants to settle negotiations with the firefighters and police sergeants, having recently signed a two-year contract with the police patrolmen.

He will help set up "interim procedures" for the Community Development and Planning department, which will be without a director this summer following last week's resignation of Rhys Kear. A five-member committee is currently reviewing applications for the position, and the acting town manager will interview approximately seven applicants.

Clark also plans to finish revising a 12-year-old set of rules and regulations for independent (non-union) town employees, a project he says he has been working on for the past year.

"It took me about a year and a half to become familiar with the personnel system in Andover, and all that would be lost if it's not documented," he explained. He hopes his efforts will prevent the new manager from having to "start all over from scratch."

With all that on his agenda, Clark joked that he will be "kind of busy" through June 30, when he leaves the post he has served in for more than two years for a new career in private industry.

And with the two key spots of both his and Kear's positions kept warm by acting administrators for the next couple of months, the manager predicted it may be "a pretty tame summer" for Andover.

South Church Receives Award

South Church, Andover, along with two Lawrence companies and a Bell Labs employee, were honored at the eighth annual Immigrant City Awards luncheon sponsored by the International Institute recently.

Grieco Brothers, Polo Clothing Co., Inc. and Robert C. Mathews joined representatives of South Church in receiving the awards which are given annually to those making significant contributions to the welfare of ethnic and minority groups in Greater Lawrence, according to Mrs. Janet Wilson Wood, awards committee chairperson.

"This year's award recipients are being recognized for their major efforts leading to the successful resettlement of refugees and immigrants in the Greater Lawrence area," said Mrs. Wood.

South Church was cited for "its involvement and leadership over the years in the resettlement of refugees. Hungarians, Cubans and Vietnamese have been able to create new lives for themselves in our community because of the financial commitment and dedicated volunteer support rendered by South Church members. Clothing has been found, apartments furnished, transportation provided, English classes taught, shopping expeditions led, jobs obtained and friendship given—all willingly and with a spirit of Christian brotherhood."

Grieco Brothers and Polo Clothing Co., Inc. were cited for their employment of refugees and immigrants and the special English language and skill training programs designed for them. Robert C. Mathews was recognized for his generous assistance and friendship especially to Indo-Chinese young people who have come to Greater Lawrence as refugees.

Guest speaker for the luncheon was Thomas G. DeVouton, coordinator, Office of Refugee Resettlement, Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

West Parish Pastor Resigns

The Reverend Dr. Otis Maxfield, senior minister of West Parish church for the past eight years, has resigned effective Sept. 1.

As of May 18, Dr. Maxfield was granted a leave of absence so that he may pursue his interests in the corporate consulting firm he is an office of and to serve in the public sector as a consultant.

During the past eight years, Dr. Maxfield has led West Parish Church through a major expansion and development phase. Working with a unique part-time staff of ministers and religious leaders, Dr. Maxfield has guided the church in developing strong, vital programs at West Parish serving the interests of all ages with subjects pertinent to life in today's society.

Shortly after Dr. Maxfield came to West Parish Church in 1973, the Learning, Loving, Living laboratory was developed through which the philosophy of caring and concern would be the basis for the growth of programs both within the church and in community outreach. Some of the highlights of the LLL program have been the opening of the LLL pre-school, an active Sunday school for elementary school-age children, an expanded youth group for junior-senior high students, SOLO for single adults, cluster groups for church families, men's and women's study groups, Koinonia for the over 60 years of age people, lay ordination and fellowship care to help members in times of need. All of these groups work together to produce such meaningful experiences as the annual Christmas pageant held on the Maxfield farm each December. Dr. Maxfield's outstanding preaching has been the foundation upon which the congregation builds its weekly activities.

Through West Parish Church's outreach programs in the community, the congregation has been active throughout the Merrimack Valley. The church has assisted in settling the Indo-Chinese immigrants, provided land for garden plots and helped city dwellers in cultivating vegetable gardens, taken part in the Essex County jail visitation programs, and participated in the GLEAM English/Hispanic tutoring program. In conjunction with the Smith-Purdon Fund support has been given, both in time and money, to such projects as GLEAM, the Samaritans suicide prevention hot line, Andover public school's counseling services for adolescents, the soup kitchen instituted in Lawrence by St. Mary's Parish, Hospice of Merrimack Valley, CLASS for adult special services, friendly visitors of Andover, and TLC-III.

Dr. Maxfield has been a moving force in the concept of The Living Center—learning, loving, living campus proposed to be built by West Parish on Reservation Road.

TLC-III will be a total life center offering a resident retirement center, day care facilities, a Hospice, family resource center and university relationship program. Under Dr. Maxfield's leadership the planning for TLC-III has evolved from the concept stage to the development phase administered by the TLC-III steering committee.

Rev. Paul Clinton, associate pastor of West Parish Church, has been designated interim minister with Mrs. Faith Johnson continuing in her role as director of Christian Education and Mrs. Penny Cox as the interim youth group advisor.

On Sunday, June 28, there will be a reception to honor Dr. Maxfield, following the 9:30 a.m. worship service, in Fellowship Hall.

Local Youth Present Production

On Saturday evening, June 13, and again on Sunday morning, June 14, at 10:30 a.m. members of the Junior Choir and friends of South Church, Andover, will present "Bullfrogs and Butterflies," a fun-filled family musical, as its annual celebration of Children's Sunday. The program is ear-leasingly loaded with rich delights for everyone. "Bullfrogs and Butterflies" is an adventure about four wide-eyed children in the Land of Love, Agapeland. The music is fresh and fun, the sets are colorfully imaginative and the costumes are enchanting.

The Saturday evening performance will be at the Spanish Evangelical Church in Lawrence, a sister church of South Church in the United Church of Christ. The players hope to strengthen ties and build a sense of community between the two churches.

The public is invited to join the congregation in worship and song on Sunday morning in the sanctuary of South Church to share in the gift of our young people.

Under the direction of Keith Gould (music) and Mrs. Dale Lattanzio (drama) and choreographed by Mrs. Peter Anderson, the following youth are participating: Craig Sorrie, Mark and Kevin Dreese, Lisa Flitner, Robbie and Steven Schmidt, Tammie St. John, Becky Penner, Christian Parker, Karin Mesler, Rachel Foster, Debbie Powers, Douglas Rogers, Amy Van Aken, Heather and Heidi Hoskison, Lindsay McCracken, Beth Willett, Kimberly Gould, Kristin Beebe, Ann Larsen, Laurie Brink, March Barnes, Alex Egmont, Chris Eggert and Eric Tupper.

Named Vice Pres. At College

Rev. Thomas M. Casey, O.S.A., current chairman of the religious studies department at Merrimack College, has been named by the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees as vice-president for academic affairs and dean of Merrimack College, it was announced by college president Fr. John E. Deegan.

Fr. Casey is replacing Rev. Edward J. McCarthy, O.S.A., who served since July 1980 in the position until he developed health problems. Fr. Casey assumes his new duties on July 1.

A native of Philadelphia, Pa., Fr. Casey is 42 years old. He received a B.A. in English/philosophy from Villanova University in 1962 and an M.A. in religious studies from Augustinian College in 1966.

He earned a Ph.D. in religion and psychology in 1976 from the University of Ottawa. Fr. Casey has also done graduate work in sociology at Catholic University of America.

An assistant professor of religious studies at Merrimack from 1977-79, Fr. Casey has served as head of the religious studies department at Merrimack from 1979. Before coming to Merrimack, he taught history and religion at Monsignor Bonner High School in Drexel Hill, Pa., from 1966-69. Pole Hill Discussions Begin

THE TOWNSMAN, JUNE 11, 1981

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Last week town meeting authorized the town to strike a deal to save Pole Hill, but those negotiations haven't begun yet — and meanwhile, the developer is proceeding with plans to build 69 houses on the riverfront site.

Arthur Kalogianis of T.D.J. Development Corp. appeared before the Planning Board Tuesday night, seeking approval of his definitive plans for a Pole Hill subdivision. The developer received preliminary approval in April, 1980.

Kalogianis said he is willing to discuss swapping the hill for the town-owned "tea lots" off Woburn Street — negotiations approved by town meeting under Article 53 — but so far, had not met with the Conservation Commission.

"This is not something we can put together overnight," the developer explained. "It will take some time. We haven't calculated any figures on it yet, but we are working on it."

In the meantime, Kalogianis added, he has "spent a lot of money" on the Pole Hill project, and "would like to get this project approved."

Margaret Keck of AVIS, who helped devise the tea lots swap proposal, said yesterday that AVIS and the Conservation Commission are "hopeful that something will come of (negotiations with Kalogianis) — but so far, nothing has."

Pole Hill, one of the highest sites in Andover, is located in Ballardvale near the Tewksbury line, with frontage on the Shawshen River. The proposed subdivision would be built off Center and Marland streets; the 69 houses would be built around four cul-de-sacs, with the only access to the subdivision from Tewksbury Street.

After a one-hour public hearing Tuesday, Planning Board Chairman David Gravalles asked the developer to request an extension on approval of his definitive plans; Kalogianis agreed, although the new deadline was not set.

Gravalles explained that the Community Development and Planning staff may need more time to review the subdivision plans, following last week's departure of director Rhys Kear.

And, a legal question that was made a condition of the preliminary approval last year apparently remains unresolved.

Several of the abutters of the proposed subdivision who attended the hearing argued that a cart path cutting through the developer's property has always been a public right of way, and should remain one.

Atty. Reginald Marden, however, representing the developer, maintained that there is no legal record that the cart path has ever been a public way.

"As far as I'm concerned, the people have no legal rights to the cart path," Marden told the planners. "It is on our land, and the public would have no rights — there is no deed to the public."

But Sherron Heller of Tewksbury Street said she has researched land deeds "going back to the 1700s, and in all of the deeds, the right to the cart path is mentioned."

The path may once have been an Indian path leading down to the river, Heller said, and according to the town assessors and a county commissioner in Salem, "it still exists as a public right of way."

The chairman said the two parties must negotiate a solution to the issue before the definitive plans can be approved, and instructed Marden to meet with the abutters' attorney as well as special town counsel.

The planners also questioned Kalogianis' plans to level Pole Hill to build the homes. Engineer Paul Ferrante of Dana F. Perkins Associates, representing the developer, said no material would be removed from the site, but would be moved around from lot to lot on the site.

Part of the hill would be leveled, he explained, and that material would be used to fill in lots on the lower side of the hill. When questioned about tree removal, Ferrante answered, "Whatever we can save will be saved."

Excavations from two to seven feet deep will be made to build the roadways in the subdivision, he added.

Sam DeSalvo, building inspector and acting Community Development director, cautioned Ferrante that the developer would need earth removal permits, even if he is not removing material from the site. The town bylaw requires a permit for moving earth material off a lot, he explained.

Abutters also questioned the safety aspect of building 69 houses around dead end streets, with only one access onto Tewksbury Street.

Ferrante said the plans included the option of building an access roadway in the future. And Marden added that last year, abutters indicated they would rather see traffic exit onto Tewksbury Street than Center and Marland streets.

Representatives of all town departments concerned with the safety issue, including the fire department, were scheduled to discuss the subdivision later this week, DeSalvo said.

"The dead end issue is not a viable one any more, but the safety issue is, and we will take a hard look at that," Gravalles told the neighbors.

When we look at the galaxy Andromeda, we are seeing light that left it before the first men appeared on earth.

Girl Scouts Receive Top Awards

Five Cadette Girl Scouts from Andover Troop 694 received awards at a Council Recognition Ceremony on Sunday, May 3, at Merrimack College. Mrs. Edwin Bogusz and Mrs. Donald Aikman, leaders, presented First Class patches to Dawn Aikman, Christine and Diane Bogusz, Donna Leith and Maureen O'Brien. Four members of Troop 694 also received the Silver Award, the highest in Cadette scouting. They are Dawn Aikman, Christine and Diane Bogusz, and Maureen O'Brien. President Ronald Reagan, Governor Edward King and Betty Cheeseman, national president of Girl Scouts of the U.S.A., sent letters of congratulation.

At the beginning of the program, the five Andover scouts conducted the presentation of colors. The ceremony ended with an inspiring speech by Senator Patricia McGovern entitled "You Can Be Anything You Want To Be."

Watershed

A paved acre sheds almost 30,000 gallons of water for each inch of rain. This water should be channeled to return to the ground instead of to storm drains, Massachusetts Audubon tells us.

Defending Colonial Drive Reputation

Open Letter To The Residents Of Andover:

As an eight-year resident of Colonial Drive Apartments, I cannot sit idly by and watch a deservedly good reputation being maligned by the slander of a few. Whether this slander is generated from malice or ignorance, I do not know. Being generally optimistic, I hope it is the latter.

In the May 21 issue of The Andover Townsman, CDA dwellers were accused of disturbing the peace of the Gould Road residents by a Mr. Rockwood. At the town meeting on June 3, at which expansion of CDA was voted down, Mrs. Rockwood delivered a three-page dissertation which, avoiding any specifics, accused us of starting fires in wooded areas adjacent to Gould Road. With such a disruptive, arsenistic reputation spawned, it is no wonder the town didn't want more of us "undesirables" to plague them.

I would like to set the record straight. CDA residents, at least in my eight years, have never been responsible for any incident even remotely approximating these two accusations. I DO know of several incidents in the wood, between CDA and Gould Road which brought either fire or police action, but none of those involved CDA people. There have been drinking parties of local youth who found the woods a convenient aftermath of a visit to the Ground Round, and there have been other incidents, as some one hiding stolen golf carts from a nearby country club in the woods. Dirt bikers, who like the rough roads through same, bother us at CDA as much as they must bother the Gould Road people. Aside from posting armed guards at the Rte. 28 entrance, there is no way we can stop them from using us as access to the woods and dirt roads in them. The only person I know who cuts through the woods to Gould Road is one of our more avid joggers, who was in this year's Boston marathon. So the only disruption we could rightly be accused of is the noise of two squeaking sneakers.

It is a tragedy both for the town and for renters that these gross misunderstandings caused the defeat of the expansion bill, for the supposed "facts" brought up by Gould Road residents and the gentlemen from North Reading did not hold the water they argued about. True, there must have been some just concerns in the past, since, a few years ago, the same bill was defeated and did NOT have the approval of the planning board and the conservation department. This time, however, it was approved by both men representing committees that assuredly based their decision on more hard facts than any one person at the town meeting had at their disposal. They were satisfied that the concerns over sewage and water had been well taken care of. The meeting took their advice on every other bill on June 3, so why not ours? My only conclusion is the prejudice against us in town based upon false rumor.

So, while home ownership becomes, as Channel 5 news said, an impossible dream, and while more and more apartments are going condo, the chance for having more rental space, and elderly housing, in a solidly-built, extremely well-cared for, and friendly neighborhood is lost forever. Of course, Andover can always choose to allow apartments to go up elsewhere in town, but, having seen many apartments in several surrounding towns, they will never be as nice to live in or as reasonably priced as CDA.

The majority of CDA residents have lived here for four years and some up to 12, and many may never move, since a house is affordable at present only for the very well-to-do. So we ARE a neighborhood, with perhaps more sense of community than many residential streets in town. We care what people think of us, because we are proud of ourselves. This is our home.

If Gould Road, rather than Rte. 28, were a main thoroughfare, then, logically, past disturbances that lost us so much on June 3 would have been moving in the other direction. Blame, also, would have been laid in the other direction. Then, perhaps, Gould Road could understand how it feels to have the shoe on the other foot—or should I say sneaker?

The cause of all this is the Caterpillar Invasion. They outnumber us 15,000,000 to 1.

We have done everything from hosing the house down several times a day, stomping on them and spraying where we can reach with Sevin. For every 10,000 we eradicate, 20,000 of their relatives come to pay their respects! We are getting nowhere fast and are considering abandoning our property(3) while we leave the town of Andover in want of our water bills and property taxes. There is no point in paying for uninhabitable property. The wildlife and insects that might be destroyed if Andover aerial sprays is nothing compared to the destruction around my house. Since I pay taxes and the wildlife doesn't, I think it is time that taxpayers of Andover are listened to. Spraying main roadside trees was a waste of taxpayers' money and unfair to those of us who don't live on main roads. The entire town should have been and must be sprayed immedi-

Thanks For Program

To The Editor Of The Townsman:

We would like to publicly thank Lori Humlak and Roger Thurber for being instrumental in organizing a very successful exchange program for 28 West Junior High, Andover High students and an Andover student from Central Catholic.

If it wasn't for their persistence, patience and genuine interest in the success of this endeavor, these students would not have had this fulfilling experience.

Since the Didac Organization did not follow through with all their original promises, these two people took control of the situation and, after many difficulties, arranged a two week experience for our children that they will never forget.

Many thanks to Lori Humlak and Roger Thurber, two of Andover's finest French teachers

Kear Sees Same Problems Facing His Replacement

By Sue Aucella Deacon

Former Director of Community Development and Planning Rhys Kear, who left that position Friday after he was asked to resign from the department he helped establish, says he will miss public service as he heads into a new career as a private planning consultant.

And he predicts his successor will encounter the same problems he did, unless the selectmen and town manager reach a clearer understanding of what they expect from the department — and can communicate that to the new director.

Kear was asked to resign in February, after nearly three years in Andover, following an extensive report on his department compiled by Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark. The report cited major growth policy conflicts between the director and Selectman Susan Poore, as the main reason Kear was asked to leave.

During a conversation at Kear's office in the Essex Street theatre building Friday morning, as he sorted through his belongings on his last day on the job, he said he will be heading in "three or four different directions." He will be involved with land management and land development as a private planning consultant, working independently as well as collaborating with other consultants.

Kear said he will continue to live in town with his wife and two children, and plans to work "primarily out of this area."

Although he is "looking forward to the private sector," Kear said after 10 years of working for and with municipalities he will "miss public service. I still have a commitment to the public sector, and I hope to be working with the public sector to a considerable degree, although in a different capacity."

Kear counts organizing the department, which was created by Clark, as the major accomplishment of his tenure, and one that "gave me a lot of challenge and pleasure. It was the most satisfying aspect of having been in Andover."

He has enjoyed "having been able to work with the staff of the town, as well as the diversity of development here — industrial, commercial, residential," Kear said. "It was a tremendous challenge and I think, frankly, we've done a pretty good job of developing the land use process in the best interests of the town."

But he added that he regrets leaving "in midstream" the Elm Square redesign project, which is scheduled for construction this summer. Kear said that despite the "recent turn of events" with the five-year-old project, he hopes it will "get pulled together relatively quickly, and that everyone can come to an agreement as to what we're going to do and do it."

(Plans for that federal and state-funded project originally called for Main Street to be resurfaced from Elm Square to Chestnut Street, but now the street will be left untouched. Selectmen pulled the street from the project after federal officials recommended more extensive work on the street — and downtown businessmen protested that the longer project would hurt their Christmas business. The street may be resurfaced in the future at the taxpayers' expense.)

Kear also said he is quite disappointed that town leaders have not developed a comprehensive land use plan: "I have been trying to get people involved in that

Consultant To Aid In Manager Search

The selectmen have placed advertisements for a town manager and have hired a consulting firm to screen all applications, due July 10, before they begin interviewing five to seven candidates.

Selectmen Chairman Norma Gammon said yesterday the board hopes to hire a replacement for Jared S.A. Clark, who will leave June 30, by October.

The board has retained New England Municipal Center of Durham, N.H., to screen all applications, which should start arriving within 10 days, Gammon indicated.

Advertisements have been placed in three professional journals, including the International City Managers Association (ICMA) newsletter of Washington, D.C., as well as the Boston Globe.

The consultants will turn over 10 applications to the selectmen by July 25, Gammon said, and the board will choose from five to seven of those to interview.

When screening the applications, the Durham firm will consider the size and population of the town and its annual budget. In addition, the selectmen have specified that they want a manager with at least seven years' experience, Gammon explained.

The board will probably start interviewing candidates in mid-August, and two or three applicants will probably be called back for second interviews, the chairman said.

Assuming that the successful candidate will need to give his or her current employer 30 days notice, Gammon said the new manager should start settling into town hall by the end of September.

Chamber Honors Sizer, McBride

Theodore R. Sizer

Frank McBride

Phillips Academy Headmaster Theodore R. Sizer and former Planning Board Chairman Frank McBride were honored Wednesday night by the Andover Chamber of Commerce during the annual dinner meeting at the Indian Ridge Country Club.

Sizer, who will be stepping down as headmaster at the academy this year, was presented the Community Service Award in appreciation for his efforts on behalf of the town, his interest in the life of the community, and the assistance the academy provides to Andover from time to time.

McBride was given the President's Award in recognition of his contributions as an active member of the chamber, as well as contributing his time and energies to the town as well, having served on the planning board and committees involved with downtown development and design. McBride is a past president and director of the chamber.

Atty. Lawrence J. Sullivan, president of the chamber made the presentations and also expressed appreciation to the chamber for their assistance during the past year, before turning the gavel over to new president, Robert Finlayson.

The Andover Townsman Chorus provided the entertainment following the dinner and program.

Congratulations To The Class Of ' 81

The Class of 1981

This special section of the Townsman is dedicated to the Andover High School, Class of 1981, which this week sets out on a new course of life.

Commencement is a proper word for the exercises which mark the successful completion of the 12 years of study which preceded last Thursday's exercises. For the over 460 young men and women, it is a time for new beginnings.

Annually during this time of year, speakers step to the podium and present varied forms of advice and set forth warnings about the world in which the graduates are about to enter.

And, each year, there is praise for accomplishment, accompanied by forecasts of what the class can expect as they step forth into the future.

The words are appropriate, the advice meaningful, and provide to a certain degree a sobering balance to the joy of having reached this particular plateau in one's life.

We live in an ever-changing world. Science and technology almost daily come up with new ways to improve our lives, even as problems continue to emerge throughout the globe dealing with such matters as how well we learn to live with one another.

That is basically what the Class of 1981 has to look forward to and in many ways, better prepared to accept the challenge than were the classes that preceded them.

Those of a cynical nature who seem to revel on being critical of today's youth will continue to find fault for the more trivial things, while casting aside the fact that past generations have passed on to today's graduate such incidental things as polluted rivers, cancer-causing derivatives, and an inflationary spiral virtually out of control.

The more proper attitude is to be optimistic as we welcome the Class of 1981 and hand them the challenge that is theirs and the new life for which they have prepared themselves. For some it will be a continuing of their education, others will enter technical or specialized fields, or the work force.

As that new venture begins, the Townsman and the participants in this special Andover High graduation section extend to the Class of '81 best wishes for every success and good health in the years ahead.

Casual Conclusions

For Andover High seniors and its principal, Philip F. Wormwood, this year's commencement exercises were particularly special. While the Class of '81 was concluding 12 years of study and stepping forth into new life's roles, Wormwood was participating in his final graduation, as he prepared to enter retirement with the close of school this year following 30 years on the faculty at Andover High. On the cover of this year's special graduation section with the principal at the school as they prepared for the big day are Tammy Bateson, who delivered an essay at the ceremonies and Karen Beaulieu, senior class secretary-treasurer. THE TOWNSMAN, JUNE 11, 1981

Ted MacDonald, right, presents gift to Principal Wormwood.

Andover High school's 122nd commencement exercises carried a little more than the usual nostalgic moments last Thursday night, as Principal Philip F. Wormwood presided over his final graduation.

Wormwood, who has been on the faculty at Andover High for over 30 years, the last ten as principal, will retire at the end of the school year.

The retiring administrator was accorded high praise for his work here by Supt. of Schools Dr. Kenneth R. Seifert, who said Wormwood, "was an excellent principal in a dynamic high school which has been through some difficult times."

"I have never met another human being, who through thick and thin, always maintained an equilibrium toward the dignity of youth," Seifert said.

Wormwood was the recipient of a gift from the students, as Ted MacDonald, junior class president made the announcement of a the planting of a tree at his Lowell Junction home.

Seifert presented scholarship awards to several of the graduates, and Chairman Joseph A. Finn of the Andover school committee delivered the principal address. His remarks and those of Essayists Tammy Bateson and Mark C. Easton are published in their entirety in this section.

Master of ceremonies for the exercises was James E. Dowe, senior class president. Mark D. Robichaud, gave the invocation and the Salute to the Flag was led by Sara J. Driscoll, class vice president.

The Andover High School band played the National Anthem, led by Jane I. Dietzel and Patricia Conlon, song leader.

Frida M. Erikson of Sweden and Claudia Pimpinelli of Italy, American Field Service students who attended Andover High this past year presented flags of their nation to Principal Wormwood.

Mark C. Easton was the recipient of the Paul A. Hopkins Memorial Award presented for "academic excellence, scientific achievement, athletic ability, school citizenship and community service." The award, presented for the first time this year, was given in memory of a popular teacher, Paul Hopkins who had been a member of the faculty for many years prior to his death this past year. It was presented by his son, Thomas.

Jean M. Dunlavy presented the year-book memorial presentation and Lisa B. Birnbach gave the benediction.

Following the presentation of the class to the school committee by Principal Wormwood, Chairman Finn, joined by Committeemen John S. Eaton, Michael R. Giammusso, Richard E. Neal and Donald W. Robb presented the diplomas.

A musical prelude by the band was led by Carol A. Brunquell, David S. Leitch, Andrew R. Parthum and Allison Webster.

The processional, "Pomp and Circumstance," by the band under the direction of Alfio Graceffa, accompanied the graduates to the stadium led by Class Marshalls Lauren D. Whitley and Kevin J. Canavan.

Directing Visions Unafraid To Future

By Tammy J. Bateson

The essay delivered by Tammy J. Bateson at commencement exercises:

Today, we climb aboard the steps of a train, leading into our future. Being able to step aboard and leave this station - our past, our homes, and a part of our lives - initiates our journey on the road to independence.

We have planned this journey for three years now. We have grown academically by taking not only those required courses, but also those that teach us different aspects of life. We have learned how to have relationships with our peers and our teachers. More importantly, we have learned how to be responsible young adults. We have set our own morals and values, which will soon be put to a test. We bring with us many fond memories of friends and the good times we have shared. But we must also move on, and achieve new goals, for education is a neverending process.

As we board the train which brings us through life's journey, one of the most important goals is to find personal happiness. The biggest thrill, a moment of great happiness and success, is something that is not built in a day, or even a year. It comes after you make up your mind about just what is important to you. It comes after you pursue your own unique set of values, regardless of social pressures or the opinion of others. For without a goal, or a destination, we will never know where we are headed.

In order to be independent, we have to board this train all by ourselves and stand on our own two feet.

If we want to be happy ourselves, we should aim to add to the happiness of others by choosing a field of study that enriches the lives of others as well as our own. We should use the skills we have acquired at Andover High to keep that train in motion. Find a career that will help to delve into the world and mold it into a better shape for future generations.

There are many exciting occupations that the track of time can lead us into a world of rewarding challenges that will leave our lives fulfilled.

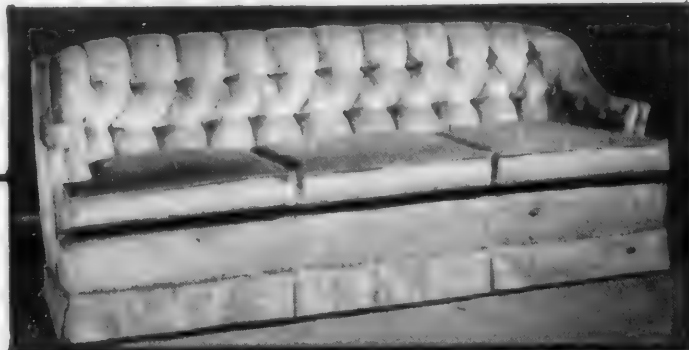

There is purpose in loving and helping others; in doing the type of work one loves to the best of one's ability, and in gaining knowledge and imparting it to others. There are many trains bound for different destinations and each traveler must choose the one best suited for his personality and his goals.

I would like to personally congratulate my fellow classmates who are graduating today, and wish them all the happiness and success that life has to offer tomorrow.

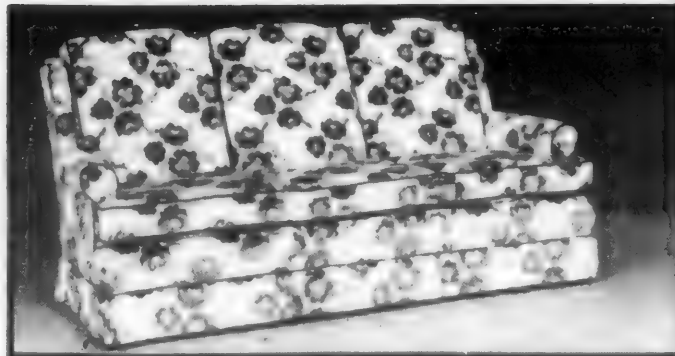

As we leave Andover High School, may we have our feet planted securely in the past, our minds keenly absorbed with the present, and our visions directed unafraid towards the future.

Essayist Advises: Be Givers Not Takers

By Mark C. Easton

The essay delivered by Mark C. Easton at commencement exercises at Andover High School:

All of life is an education. Our lives are spent in the process of learning; gaining tools to function as a constructive part of our society. As with most things, the majority of these basic skills are acquired in our early years. And nothing dominates those years more, six hours a day, five days a week, than the time we spend in school.

Flashcards, math and reading carts, tests, and most (and worst) of all, home-work, are designed to make it possible for us to succeed in today's world, and instill in us a true love of learning (?). But school is not the major force in our formative stage strictly in an academic sense. Our first social interactions take place here. We make our first friends, maybe some enemies, and encounter the situations that will be meaningful for the rest of our lives (far more than any textbook).

But of all the years (and years and years) we spend in school, those spent in high school are the most special. The mass-conformity of junior high is over, true individual personalities are beginning to emerge. A host of opportunities open before us, enabling students to find a unique path through high school. For the first time we take what we want to take, along with what we have to take. The wide range of academic courses is supplemented by extra-curricular activities. Athletes, Yearbook, Peer-Counseling, Newspaper, Business Club, Model United Nations, and Student Government are just a few of those. And yes, high school is also a time to be social. The caf, the library, and sometimes even classes are the places to plan the events of the week-end.

But most of all, high school is special because it is a culmination. It is the end of our public school education. Diverging interests will split groups of friends, and many of us will never come back to the special town where we grew up (although Andover will always be home). By now, we have made decisions that will affect the rest of our lives. Most doors remain open, but some are closed forever.

Some of the doors that were open to us are being closed to those that follow. Proposition 2½ is just the beginning of the trend away from human services. As well as the students, I ask all of you parents and school committeemen to think what education has done for you. Did it get you your job, develop other interests that enrich your life, was it a memorable experience? It seems odd to me that we think so many things more important than an education. Is it right for a teacher, a person who touches and changes hundreds of lives in the course of a career, to be one of the lower-paid workers? How many under-worked and over-paid teachers do you remember from your high school days? I know but few that aren't over-worked and under paid. I remember three teachers who put together our Model United Nations trips to Boston and New York. They weren't paid, they worked, planned, and

Finn Advises Class 'Know Yourself'

The address to the graduates by School Committee Chairman Joseph A. Finn:

This is my sixth consecutive year at the High School graduation, and for six years, I've watched as some speakers have faced the graduating class, while others have faced the families and friends in the audience. I often wondered, what was their motivation in facing one way vs. the other? Was there some deep, meaningful purpose behind it, or did the rostrum just happen to be facing that way? And during that time, I also wondered which way I would face, given the opportunity to speak. This has proven to be one of the more difficult decisions that I've had to make as a School Committee member. But, I have made it, although not for a very profound reason. After weighing the pros and cons of both positions, I decided that the sun would be the deciding factor. If it wasn't shining too brightly, I would face the graduating class, looking it straight in the eye. However, if it was shining too brightly, I would turn my back to it and face the audience, for the simple reason, that I wouldn't even be able to see the graduating class, let alone look it in the eye. And those of you in the stands today know what I'm talking about. Hence, I face you.

I know that I have not been chosen by the graduating class to speak. Rather, as Chairman of the School Committee, I have been forced upon it by protocol. So, I will be brief, a quality that I'm sure you'll all appreciate. Thus, getting on with it, and being more serious, let me tell you that although I was never certain of which way

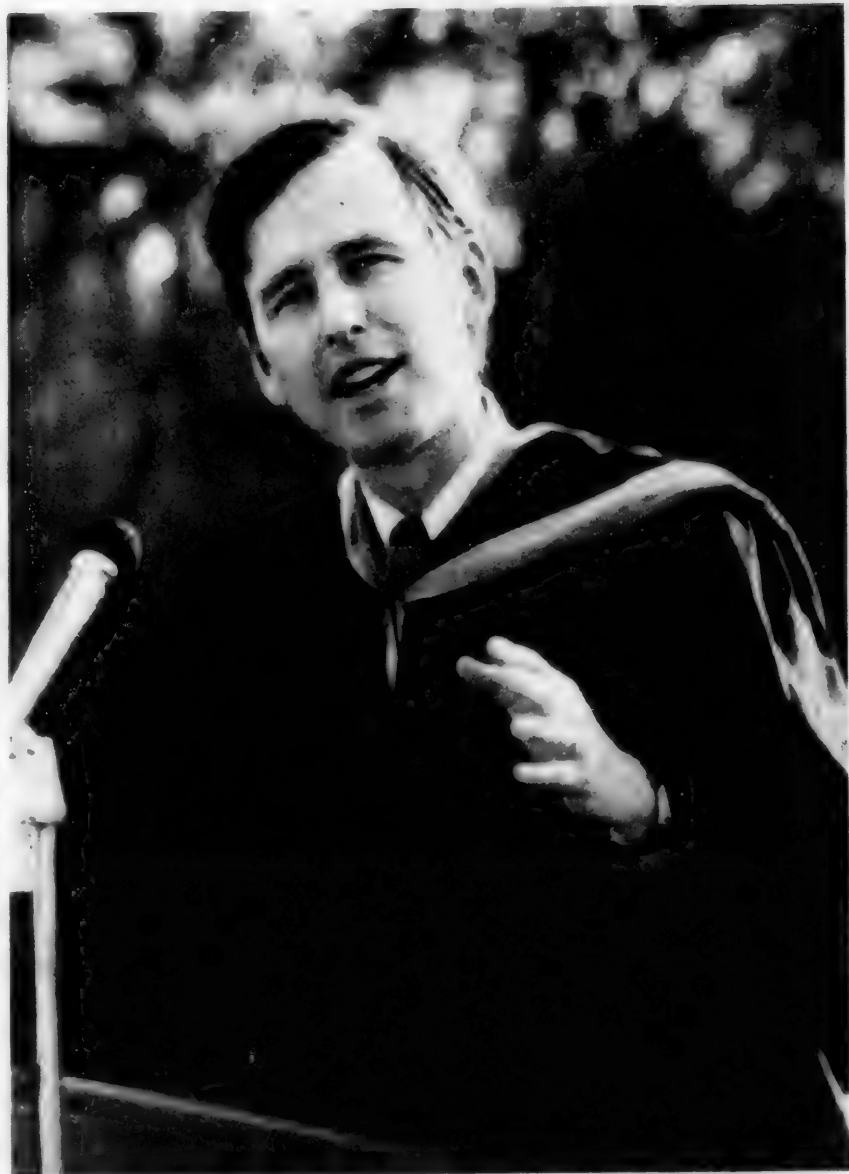

I would face, I was always certain of what I would tell you, given the chance. The message is very simple, and I do hope that you take it to heart, because for me, having embraced it, life has been a very rewarding and a very fulfilling experience. I am, and I have been, a very happy and content person. And I only hope that all of you, at a similar stage in your lives, can look back and say the same thing.

The message is, know yourself, and live within yourself. That is, know your strengths and know your weaknesses, and live within these capabilities. Don't impose upon yourself, nor allow anyone to impose upon you, standards or objectives that are unrealistic, given your particular attributes. To do so, is to pave the way for disappointment after disappointment, and utter frustration and unhappiness.

Accept the abilities that God has given you, develop them to the fullest, and make a life for yourself within them. Everyone can't be a Superintendent of Schools, yet not everyone can come to grips with this fact. The well adjusted school custodian will lead a richer, fuller life than the High School Principal who eats his or her heart out to be a Superintendent, when it just isn't in the cards that life has dealt the individual.

Now, I could leap more verbiage upon you, trying to drive the point home, or I could go on to talk about the more traditional things that one hears at graduations, such as the challenges that face you, or the opportunity that awaits you, but I promised to be concise. You're a marvel-

Andover Bank presents

three talented performers on the same bill.

NOW Accounts Pay-by-phone Personal Touch banking.

They're our three biggest head-liners.

Take NOW Account checking, for example. It pays 5 1/4% interest on your money, and it features a simple monthly statement listing all transactions for easy record keeping. And, when you maintain a balance of $300, it's absolutely free.

Pay-by-phone can be just as free as your NOW Account. It can save you time and money, too. No more grueling check writing sessions; no more postage on bills. All it takes is a single phone call; we'll pay your bills for you. It's that easy, and that convenient.

And, of course, Personal Touch banking allows you to make deposits, withdrawals or transfers between accounts anytime . . . day or night. We can't think of anything more convenient than being open 24 hours.

Stop into any office of Andover Bank soon and ask about our talented performers. You may not get to sing and dance, but you will find that doing your banking is a whole lot easier.

chaperoned because they enjoy being with kids. One of those teachers, very young, will be lost to us next year. You see, Proposition 2½ doesn't get rid of the "deadwood," it cuts off the new branches a school needs to survive.

Proposition 2½ also has some important social ramifications. As the quality and quantity of public education decreases, those that can afford it will send their children to private school. A wider separation of classes will occur, with public schools becoming a place people do not attend by choice.

A lot of parents are worried that their kids aren't committed, that we give up our long range goals in favor of what's happening at present. But isn't that just what Proposition 2½ is; forsaking the lifetime benefits of an education for a tax cut, so we can spend the money on something less important.

I think we, the Class of 1981, have a real responsibility; not only to underclassmen and to our parents, but to ourselves. We must prove that we are committed; that we are willing to do something with the tremendous gift of education that has been given us.

It is said there are two kinds of people in the world, those who serve, and those who are served. It is up to us, the 1981 graduating class of Andover High School, to prove we are not takers, but givers.

Class Vice President Sara J. Driscoll leads Salute to the Flag.

This deck was built with Wolmanized® lumber . . . Outdoor wood. It's ordinary wood—pressure-treated with Wolman® preservation chemicals to keep it handsome, sturdy, and worry-free for dozens of years.

Considering how long Outdoor wood lasts, it's relatively inexpensive. Use Outdoor wood for your next project. You can be sure it will have the appearance and shape-holding qualities you expect because Outdoor wood is a high grade of material.

Be sure to look for the Outdoor® wood mark on each piece of lumber. If it doesn't have the mark, it isn't genuine Outdoor brand wood.

Inside the Mercedes-Benz 240 Diesel— the Mobile Efficiency System:

Safety, the ultimate efficiency.

Smoothly integrated into the design of the Mercedes-Benz 240 D are 120 individual safety features—reflecting the engineers' belief that a car's ultimate efficiency is the ability to protect its occupants from the hazards of the road and consequences. Precise steering, road-holding suspension and beefy four-wheel disc brakes are safety features designed to help avoid trouble by driving out of it. But backing them up is a whole second dimension of safety, in case trouble occurs. The 240 D's body, for instance, is designed to crumple fore and aft, absorbing the energy of impact before it can penetrate the rigid passenger-carrying structure. Its door locks exceed even U.S. Government strength standards. Roof pillars boast extra-strong profiles to increase lateral impact resistance and roll-over capacity. The steering wheel, steering hub and steering column of the 240 D all have safety features built in; the instrument panel is free of any dangerous protrusions and built to yield under heavy impact. From such major measures as these, to such minor ones as the shape of the gear-shift lever and the latch on the glove-box door, the 240 D follows a safety-first philosophy. Inside and out. The list is long—but the conclusion is brief: in the Mercedes-Benz 240 D, the ultimate efficiency concern is your safety.

Perilous Times

A couple of events of these past few weeks represent serious concern for Andover.

They deal with the leaving of Rhys Kear as director of Community Development and Planning and the resignation of Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark who has chosen to enter the field of private industry.

While not directly related, they have a bearing on each other.

Kear is leaving because he was asked to by the town manager following a lengthy examination of the department, which turned up no wrongdoing on the part of the director, but an apparent inability to resolve differences of opinion between the administrator and a selectman—namely Mrs. Susan T. Poore.

Kear's requested resignation, because of that, and his acquiescence to the request, is a most unfortunate circumstance. He was performing a difficult task well, and proceeding in a proper direction under difficult circumstances, until such time as his work was undermined by a meddlesome municipal official who apparently does not understand the responsibilities of the office of selectman.

Clark's resignation, while not attributable to the effort of any one selectman or to any particular issue, presents to the selectmen and to the town a difficult period in which to operate, purely because of the presence of Mrs. Poore on that board.

Despite the involvement in the Kear matter, and his subsequent resignation, Mrs. Poore has given no indication that she is prepared to follow in the guidelines prescribed for selectmen in Andover, according to the charter.

Selectmen are elected to retain a municipal administrator. They are, in effect, the board of directors of a major, public corporation who are to oversee the work of the professional administrator.

Their duties do not include wading into the various municipal departments to direct activities or to impose upon department heads their thoughts and theories of administration or directions in which the town should move.

It should be obvious that Mrs. Poore, despite the public disclosure of her activity leading up to Kear's resignation, has hardly felt it her duty to conform to the conduct of a selectman according to the charter.

She continues to interject her thoughts and feelings to boards and committees.

At the annual town meeting her thoughts were expressed on two issues of major import to the town, the Shattuck Farm rezoning and the altering of the zoning for the Digital Equipment Corp.

While no one would deny a person the right to address town meeting on any issue, when one dons the mantle of municipal office, expression of views takes on a different meaning. While the opinion offered may be personal in nature, the general public can sometimes look upon it as being one of more authority.

Her comments on the Digital matter, noting that the rezoning of the land near her home was not a consensus of municipal thought, flew in the face of the unanimous accord given the proposal by every major board or committee which viewed the proposal.

The action is similar to that which followed the creation of an organizational chart for municipal administration by Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark. Upon his retention a few years ago, Clark was charged with putting the town's administration in orderly and businesslike fashion, a task he set about to perform most capably.

Her praise of that work has been impugned by her circumvention of the very chain of command which it was intended to create.

When employees within a department can report petty grievances to a selectman and cause sufficient disruption to prompt action, then a community faces serious problems.

When a single elected official can interject thoughts, ideas bordering on orders, to the point of causing major shifts in municipal personnel, a town faces troubles.

A municipal corporation is a compendium of thoughts, ideas and actions by many people for the benefit of the community as a whole. No single person should hold the authority or even the idea of authority to direct the growth, educational well-being or general welfare of the community.

For the present board of selectmen, the next several weeks and months will be difficult ones.

They will be guiding the town with the assistance of an acting town manager, whose duties will be purely to "keep the store open."

In the meantime, they must seek and retain the services of a professional administrator, while at the same time insuring that one of their own conforms to the duties of office and the organizational chart.

What makes the task so much more difficult is that Mrs. Poore has given little indication of intention of adhering to the rules.

Thanks!
Andover

West school youngsters are appreciative of the town's providing funds for the installation of caution lights on Beacon street in front of the school. Town meeting a year ago appropriated the funds and the students recently voted to express their appreciation for the safety measure. Shown utilizing the signal for safe crossing are Eric Fries, Karen Babine, Shaleen Cassily, Ryan Swenson, Joel Flaherty, Brad Wright and Keith Mercer.

process for two and a half years, but there has been very little positive response from the people who would support such an effort."

The town's existing master plan was financed by the federal government in 1965 and is of "very, very limited value," he explained. "Rather than having a plan that is static, the town needs a dynamic land use plan."

A comprehensive plan, Kear said, would not be "chiseled in concrete," but would "provide a common understanding of what the problems are in the community, and what the community would like to be — what the town's goals are, and how the town would like to achieve those goals."

Such a plan would have helped town meeting with its recent decision to rezone a Dascomb Road parcel to industrial for Digital Equipment Corp., Kear pointed out. "A common understanding and agreement makes decision-making much simpler, and it makes achieving a consensus much more efficient."

"I had hoped that support for that plan would have been forthcoming from the selectmen, and other people, but it wasn't," Kear said. However, some information has been gathered, and it is "now incumbent upon the land use boards to take the structure and information available, and begin to produce preliminary goals and policy," he added.

"Even in the absence of clearly expressed goals, there is a good basic understanding of the dynamics and the general goals of the community among the land use boards," Kear commented. "They are not always given credit for that."

Town officials have let the department down in other ways as well, he maintained. "I have not always felt that the department and the people in it received the kind of personal and political support that they have a right to expect," Kear said.

"It is impossible to try to regulate and manage growth and the changing of the community without a considerable amount of controversy and, at times, animosity. Many of us feel that on many occasions, the department wasn't given the benefit of the doubt or the support we needed to implement our program."

That support was lacking from both the selectmen and the town manager, he indicated.

The former director feels the department was formed almost simultaneously with a period of major growth in Andover, an offshoot of "tremendous" industrial growth in the Merrimack Valley that brought with it increased homebuilding and land speculation. Department members worked hard to develop a "flexible" approach to the problems it faced while coping with large amounts of work, Kear said.

"It's rather disheartening to work very hard, long hours with dedicated, hard-working people, and not get the kind of back-up and support you sometimes need to look for," he remarked.

Kear said there has been "a great misconception" that there have been personality conflicts within the department. "Frankly, the department does not have the kind of internal conflict that has been represented in the newspapers," he maintained. "We all work relatively well together trying to do a difficult job."

He called department members "a super group of people, doing a very thankless job. All the boards have been very supportive of the staff, and the staff has been in kind supportive and dutiful to them."

Kear is also dismayed that he has been "accused of not acting in the best interests of the town." Some town officials, he indicated, "seem to have had a problem being able to have honest disagreement. Instead of debating the issues, people have impugned my character and my motivations."

"I have no objection to having people disagree with me," he said, "but I have very strenuous objections to their impugning my motives. To say that I have not worked in the best interests of the town is insulting."

And he said he found recent remarks by the manager that the next director will be more a "consensus-builder" than a director "confusing. I have always considered myself a consensus-builder and a director," Kear explained. "But there are clearly times when you can't achieve a consensus — and someone's got to make a decision."

"Never have I stifled opposing views," he said strongly. "But I have not been afraid of taking a position — that goes with the territory in the title of director."

Kear warned that there seems to be a continuing confusion among "the people who make decisions" about "what this department ought to be doing. I don't know what they expected us to do differently — I don't know what they expect the new director to do any differently from what I did — procedurally or substantively."

"I really hope the new director will have an opportunity with the selectmen and land use boards to try to come to an agreement about what people's expectations are, so he or she doesn't end up in the same trap I did," he continued.

"And I certainly hope that whoever makes the decisions in the future has more respect for people, and don't do to the next director what they did to me," he said quietly, with no apparent bitterness.

Kear holds a master's degree in city and regional planning from Rutgers University in New Jersey. He worked for five and one-half years for the city of Virginia Beach, part of that time as deputy director of planning, and he has worked for two private consulting firms.

He said he "will never lose my interest in local government" because he likes Andover and its people. Kear has been particularly impressed with the "own meeting form of government here, which was new to him."

"It is not necessarily the most efficient form of government, but it is so far superior politically to any of a number of other forms of government, primarily because at least everyone has the opportunity to be involved in the legislative process," Kear noted. "Our best insurance of a continuing democracy is the direct involvement of its people."

School

However, there is a $500,000 contingency fund built into the $13 million budget to cover any changes with the contractor, Clark added.

Opposition to the article came from former Finance Committee member Robert Merrill of Cross Street — who called himself "the loyal opposition."

Reminding voters that the town voted "overwhelmingly" in favor of the tax-cutting Proposition 2½ last November, he asked, "Have we missed that message?" Merrill questioned whether Andover could support the increased funding and still remain "a responsible financial community. Will the bond market see us as irresponsible? That's an important question."

And Karl Haartz of High Plain Road, who calculated that a 15-year bond issue would cost taxpayers $40 million (which was later refuted by the manager) suggested the new high school auditorium be funded by local industries, rather than the town.

"They have money to burn," Hart said of the industries. "We should be asking these people — we want to be artistic and cultured, how about giving us a bit? It may sound farfetched," Haartz admitted, "but much bolder plans have been carried out."

The school building committee learned its project was as much as $3 million over budget last month, when it opened bids. Low bidders were Peabody Construction company for the school buildings, with a $10,680,735 bid, and Meola Construction company for the playing fields, with a 37 $8478,786 bid.

Together with an equipment budget of $764,479, planning studies at $206,000, construction inspection and testing costs of $240,000, architects' fees of $850,000, and the $500,000 contingency fund, those bids add up to a $13 million project.

An additional $720,000 for architect's studies was authorized by 1978 town meeting.

Town meeting nearly missed its chance to vote on the additional funding, because the selectmen were reluctant to call a special town meeting on the budget overrun. However, two days after a vote against calling the meeting, the board reversed its position, and called Monday night's special meeting.

The board changed its stand after the school committee trimmed its funding request from $3 million to $2 million by cutting some parts of the project, an action later endorsed by the building committee.

The major part of the project calls for converting the Doherty school into a junior high to replace East Junior High, using East's Memorial Auditorium wing as part of the converted school. The remaining two EJH wings will then belong to the town; their future is still uncertain.

In addition, a new 1,250-seat auditorium will be added to Andover High, designed for community as well as school use, along with other renovations at the school; and West Junior High will get a new Instructional Materials Center (I.M.C., or library) built in its courtyard, along with classroom renovations.

JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

WEEKLY SPECIAL

Simple arithmetic shows why
Social Security can't cut itBy JACK ANDERSON and JOE SPEAR

WASHINGTON — It's no secret that the Social Security system is in deep trouble. That's why the Reagan administration tried to get Congress to cut back on benefits.

But the White House ran into a buzz saw with its proposal to reduce benefits to workers who chose to retire early. And, in a way, the president's men deserved the overwhelming defeat they suffered.

Reagan's advisers may have done their homework on the dollars-and-cents of the issue, but they fell down on the job of explaining it to the public. And until the American people realize what a deep hole Social Security is in, any attempt to put the system on a self-supporting basis doesn't have a chance of passing Congress.

There is a Social Security expert on Capitol Hill who has done his homework. He is Bill Archer, a Republican congressman from Texas, and he has prepared a study of the Social Security system that hasn't been made public yet. It shows the pressures that are going to drive the Social Security trust fund bankrupt unless something is done.

What makes Archer's study so discouraging is that it is arithmetic, pure and simple. And no amount of wishful thinking will make it turn out any better. Here is just one typical mathematcal problem from Bill Archer's textbook:

Suppose you retired this year at the age of 65. You have been participating in the Social Security program since it began and have contributed the maximum amount every year. That means you have put about $13,000 into the trust fund.

It sounds like a lot. But you'll be taking $667 a month out of the trust fund. You're entitled to it.

It doesn't take an electronic computer to figure out that the $13,000 you put in will be used up within 20 months. But if you're a man, your life expectancy at this point is more than 14 years. If you're a woman, it's nearly 19 years. And if you're married, the combined benefits for you and your spouse will use up that $13,000 in just 13 months.

What makes the situation even worse, according to Archer's study, is this: The number of Social Security beneficiaries is growing each year compared to the number of contributing workers. In 1955, there were only 12 persons getting benefits for every 100 workers. Last year, there were 31 people drawing benefits for every 100 workers putting money into the fund.

Clearly, something has to be done to save the system.

ESCALATION IN EL SALVADOR — The Reagan administration is quietly getting more involved in the conflict in El Salvador.

Our sources say that the American Embassy in San Salvador has submitted a formal request to Washington to send 14 additional military helicopters to the Salvadoran junta. The choppers are supposed to bolster El Salvador's U.S.-trained National Guard in its fight against leftist guerrillas.

It's significant that the request for the helicopters came originally from the Salvadoran government. In the past, the junta has said it doesn't really need extensive U.S. military aid to handle the leftist rebels. So either the Salvadoran government has decided on its own that the situation has gotten worse, or it has been persuaded by Washington that it now needs more help.

At any rate, the request for the choppers was enthusiastically endorsed by the U.S. Embassy in a confidential cable to the State Department last month. Our sources say the helicopter shipment was also supported by the regional U.S. military command in Panama.

American advisers sent to El Salvador by President Reagan have been training a crack battalion of National Guard troops. The battalion's mission is to move against leftist guerrillas, who maintain control in large areas of the countryside. According to our sources, the 14 military helicopters would be used to provide mobility for the specially trained National Guardsmen.

The Salvadoran junta already has 10 U.S. helicopters. The rebels have managed to shoot down one of them, but we are told that it has already been replaced.

PRIVY PROBLEM — Space shuttle pilots John Young and Robert Crippen bragged that the "billion dollar" spacecraft Columbia was a marvelous machine. The astronauts, however, had a problem with the shuttle's million-dollar toilet.

The so-called "waste collection system" — which looks like a portable camper toilet — broke down in the zero gravity of space. The plumbing backed up near the end of the shuttle's two-day flight. Happily the astronauts had a back-up system to replace the backed-up toilet.

Each model of the privy, which was designed by General Electric, cost the taxpayers $1.2 million — and that doesn't include the cost of research and development.

WATCH ON WASTE — Showers are being built or planned at nearly every federal agency so that top bureaucrats who jog or exercise during the day don't offend their co-workers. Walter Barber was the acting administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency until he was recently replaced by Anne Gorsuch. She then honored him with a $10,000 bonus for doing a good job. It was his second big monetary award in seven months.

Jones Qualifies For New Englands

By Kelly Shannon

Sophomore Bryna Jones was the only member of the Andover track team to qualify for the New England Track Meet which will be held on Saturday, June 13, in Concord, N.H. Jones qualified by placing third in the discus at the All Class Meet held last Saturday in Gardner. She threw the discus a remarkable 123'7".

The girls' 440 relay team, consisting of Davyenne Williams, Marsha Cummings, Mary Beth Boland and anchorleg Barbara Cullinan, placed fourth and set a new school record of 50.2 seconds.

The boys' 440 relay team also did well, posting the best time of the year (45.0). The relay team (Jeff Gutterman, Gary Milne, Dave Fluet and anchorleg Steve Jackson) won their heat, but did not place.

Lester McKellar, one of the area's top pole vaulter, placed sixth (12'6").

Tribute To Leo Tortora

By Dan Grams

Andover lost a very special person when, over the weekend, Leo V. Tortora passed away.

A prominent figure in Little League baseball since its existence, Mr. Tortora will long be remembered.

As manager of the National League Giants, he captured several Little League titles and also coached numerous tournament teams.

His teams were always competitive right up until he left the Little League in 1975. Mr. Tortora possessed a quality which few individuals have, the ability to work with kids.

Regardless of ability, he was always able to get the most out of everyone he touched, developing them into winners, no matter what the score. Anyone who ever put on a Giants' uniform exemplified the character of Mr. Tortora, for you always played your heart out while having fun in doing it.

There are few who have come along and done as much for Andover youth baseball than Mr. Tortora has. Anyone involved with Little League will always look back on fond memories which he shared with

Billy Vickers

...6-hitter, 2-run single

Mark Lefebvre

...game-winning RBI double

By Rick Harrison

A solid complete-game pitching performance by Billy Vickers, coupled with a pair of clutch hits by Vickers and Mark Lefebvre, lifted Andover Gold to a come-from-behind 5-4 victory over Andover Blue in the Greater-Lawrence Babe Ruth League (13-15 years) opener for both baseball teams last Sunday at the East Junior High Playstead field.

Gold overcame an early 4-0 deficit, notching one run in the fourth inning and four more in the bottom of the sixth to register the victory.

Vickers picked up the mound win with a steady six-hitter, striking out four and walking none, and the lefthander was almost letter perfect have a four-run Blue uprising in the top of the third.

Righthander John Geiger started for the Blue, hurling five strong innings before tiring in the sixth. Geiger surrendered four hits and four runs, walking eight and whiffing three.

Reliever Kurt Smith took the loss, surrendering a basehit to the Gold player who eventually scored the deciding run.

The Gold crew mounted the first serious threat of the game, loading the bases with one out in the second on a double to centerfield by Billy Lane and subsequent walks to Scott Zimmerman and Kraig Burzlaff.

Geiger escaped the jam, however, striking out the next batter and retiring Mark Grams on a fly ball to rightfielder Tom Powers.

Bob Rikeman opened the four-run Blue third with a sharp single to centerfield. Mike Surrette laid down a sacrifice bunt, and both runners were safe when Vickers threw late to second trying to nail Rikeman.

Kurt Smith lashed a one-out single to load the bases, but Vickers got the second out when Mike Gibson's hot shot to third forced Rikeman at the plate.

Geiger chased home the first two runs with an opposite-field double down the rightfield line, and Dave Laporte made it 4-0 moments later when his slicing grounder skipped into leftfield for two runs.

Vickers then retired the next seven batters in succession, and faced the minimum number of 12 hitters over the last four innings.

Geiger reached on an infield error in the sixth, and Brett Larrabee stroked a double in the same stanza, but both were erased on an unusual double play that went from leftfielder Scott Zimmerman to third baseman Steve Dougal to catcher Mark

Senior League Results

By Lary Larrabee

Andover Senior League Baseball got its start this week with the Dodgers off to a fast start winning four out of five.

Dodgers 14 - Red Sox 3

Brian Barry went the distance striking out 15 and chipped in with three hits to lead the Dodgers to a big opening win. Jim Lowe added two hits including a triple. Barry also had four RBI.

Dodgers 7 - Braves 4

Jim Daly picked up the win surrendering just eight hits and striking out five over seven innings. Todd Deery led the way at the plate with two hits including a double, and two RBI. Stolen bases, timely hits and eight walks by Brave pitchers led to most of the Dodger runs. Jim Lowe and Mannie Sousa also had hits for the winners.

Dodgers 5 - Mets 2

Mike Coelho of the Mets had a no-hitter through seven innings but a timely double by Dodger opposing pitcher Brian Barry cleared the bases and led the way to the win. Barry struck out the side in the bottom of the eighth, giving him 14 for the game to preserve the victory. Fran Ferrara and Steve Gemmell made fine defensive plays in the field to keep Mets at bay.

Dodgers 14 - White Sox 7

Thirteen-year-old Scott Deery picked up the win with relief help from Mike Klinger and George Heseltine. Brian Barry had two doubles while Daran Courier and Todd Deery each had a hit. Timely hitting around many walks from the White Sox again was the key to the victory.

The first balloon flight occurred in 1782, when Jacques and Joseph Montgolfier of Annonay, France, sent up a small smoke-filled balloon.

Pirates 16 - Dodgers 15

The Pirates finally topped the streaking Dodgers pounding out ten hits. Brian Sheehy and John Recesso led the way for the Pirates while Brian Barry had a double and a triple for the losers.

EXPERT GROOMING

Never Kenneled Your Dog Before????

A personal consultation will calm your fears and your dog will enjoy his stay while you enjoy your vacation.

"About 1965 I went in search of a place to board my 3 dogs. I didn't want them in a hospital — or a cage — most kennels caged their dogs and conditions were repulsive to me. I cancelled my vacation. I had a small building that I converted with "stalls and runs." Cost (those days) $800.00 — capacity 11 dogs. I put in this building what I wanted my own dogs to have. That was the beginning of TEE-EMM'S KENNEL. Capacity now 513 Dogs and Cats (separate floors). We are now putting up a new modern building (our 5th) that will be completed this spring — it will be SUPER BEAUTIFUL. We are indeed very proud of it and a dream has come true."

nailed at the plate, and Larrabee was subsequently cut down trying to stretch his double.

Gold hit the scoreboard with a run in the fourth, but once again left the bases loaded.

One-out singles by Zimmerman and Bill Weidman put runners at first and second, but Zimmerman was thrown out trying to steal third. Geiger then walked Burzlaff and Brian Finnerty to load the bases, and a third straight walk to Grams forced home the run.

Blue first baseman Dave Laporte saved the day in the fifth, as Gold put two men on base with two out before Laporte made a fine over-the-head catch of Bill Weidman's dangerous looper down the rightfield line.

Kraig Burzlaff reached on a misplayed outfield fly to open the floodgates in the four-run sixth. Walks to pinch-hitter Mark Doherty and Steve Dougal, sandwiched around a forceout, loaded the bases.

Smith was summoned in relief of Geiger, but Billy Vickers extended a rude welcome by jassing his second pitch up the middle for a two-run single.

Dougal raced home with the tying run on a throwing error, and Mark Lefebvre rescued Vickers with the winning marker by belting a long double to left-centerfield.

Blue hit several balls hard in the final three innings, but sharp line drives by Smith, Gibson, Laporte, Tom Powers and Rikeman were caught by Finnerty, Dougal (2), Lefebvre and Burzlaff.

Vickers was the only player on either side with two hits.

Defensive standouts for the Gold were Mark Grams at catcher, Kraig Burzlaff at second base, and Steve Dougal at third.

Laporte, Rikeman (catcher) and Geiger made solid fielding plays for the Blue.

Gold, which whipped the Methuen Lions 7-1 in a preseason game, is scheduled to return to action tonight against perennial power North Andover. Gold also faces South Lawrence East tomorrow night at Mark Devlin Field.

Blue met Prospect Hill last night and duels South Lawrence West tomorrow at Mount Vernon Park.

Sunday's result squared the two-year-old series between the intra-town rivals at 2-2.

The teams split a pair of regular-season games last summer, the Blue winning 8-4, and the Gold coming back for a 4-2 triumph. Blue then edged Gold 2-0 in the semifinal round of the league playoffs.

The majority of the players from both teams will make the group's 11th annual trip to Montreal, Canada, later this month.

The complete Gold team roster is comprised of Billy Vickers, Mark Lefebvre, Robbie Wilson, Steve Dougal, Scott Zimmerman, Billy Lane, Kraig Burzlaff, Mark Grams, Bill Weidman, Brian Finnerty, Shane Smith, Mark Doherty, Kevin Rourke, Scott Wilkins and Paul Oshan.

The Gold team was weakened last week by the loss of its Robbie Wilson for three to four weeks with a broken bone in his right hand. Wilson is an excellent outfielder and had just completed a fine season for the East Junior High freshmen (.417 batting average).

The Andover High School will hold its first annual alumni baseball game this Saturday, June 13, at 11 a.m. at the high school. The game is a new tradition that Andover High Coach Bill Vickers hopes to be a long one.

Past players and coaches will be opposed by this year's varsity squad who won 10 of 19 games this spring.

Such names as Glen Verrette, Paul McIntyre, Mark LaLonde, Steve Fabiani and Steve Tisbert are some of the past baseball stars who will be playing for the alumni.

Special League To Open

The Andover Lodge of Elks will start its Exceptional Children's Softball League on Tuesday, June 16, at the Bancroft School ballfield.

Since its inception 10 years ago, at least two boys have been able to advance to regular Little League.

The league is open to all exceptional children in North Reading, North Andover and Andover. Play starts every Tuesday evening at 6:15.

Earns Letter

John Niceforo, a freshman from North Andover, Ma., has earned a varsity letter with the men's tennis team at Tufts University. Coach Richard Shapiro announced today.

Tufts compiled an 8-3 record, its seventh consecutive winning season, in 1981. The Jumbos highlighted their spring campaign by topping the University of Massachusetts, 6.5-2.5, and Williams College, 5-4.

With eight lettermen returning, Tufts is looking forward to continued success next year.

Little League baseball will always have a special place in their hearts for Mr. Tortora and will strive to carry out baseball the way in which he did.

Dodgers 13 - Cardinals 1

Trailing 1-0 in the first, the Dodgers erupted for six runs and never looked back in defeating the first half co-champs Cards 13-1.

Mark Elefante enjoyed a perfect 4-for-4 game for the Dodgers, who racked 5 Card pitchers for 13 hits. Todd Patti, Mark Needham and Larry Aiello had two hits apiece. Bart Kalkstein added a double.

Aiello was the winner in a route going performance. David Swenson was a defensive standout.

Cub 10 - Pirates 4

The Cubs evened their second half record at one with an impressive 10-4 triumph over the Pirates.

Mark Russell picked the win giving up five hits while wiffing one. Dave Flanders finished up with an equally effective three innings of work.

John Russell had two of the Cubs 10 hits. Scott Grant, Cam Deery, Chris Hansberry, Eric Goodman, Flanders and M. Russell all drove in runs.

The game marked the pitching debut of Russell and a memorable one at that.

Braves 8 - Mets 6

The Braves fought back from a 6-0 deficit to tie and then go on to beat the Mets 8-6.

Jeff McNeill, David Sullivan, Stephen Napolitano and John Twomey had the key hits in the Braves comeback.

Sullivan started but tired and was relieved by McNeill who pitched superbly in his three-inning stint to earn the win.

Jack Sweeney was the Mets starter, followed by Andy 'Whizzer' Shea and Dan Hegarty.

Stephen Napolitano, Brendan McGrail, Chris DiClemente and Donald Conolly were defensive standouts. Met third baseman Finneran also played well defensively.

Dodgers 3 - Cubs 0

Mark Elefante and David Swenson combined to strikeout 12 enroute to a three hitter and a 3-0 decision over the tough-luck Cubs.

Cub right hander Scott Grant pitched a super ballgame in a losing cause. Grant stymied the Dodger bats until the fourth inning when the Dodgers struck first blood.

Mike Moriarty tripled to lead off the inning. Mike Dimeo then ripped a single to plate Moriarty with what proved to be the winning run. Moriarty finished the game with three hits to lead all Dodger hitters, while Mark Needham chipped in with two safeties. Needham also shined defensively at first base for the victors.

Jay Trepanier, Eric Goodman and Grant had the three Cub hits. Goodman also turned in a fine game on the field as well.

Giants 9 - Braves 6

The Braves scored often and early but failed to give hurler Steve Mencia any defensive support as the Giants came away with a 9-6 decision.

Mencia went the route for the Braves surrendering 8 hits, while striking out 4 and walking 3.

Dave Pratt and Dave Wade were the Giants' hurlers, while Chris Colsia, Pratt, Rob Moody and Mark Polarow stood out at the plate.

Chris DiClemente and Chris Hekimov had two hits for the Braves.

American Majors

Indians 11 - Yanks 10

The Indians evened their second half record at one with a slim 11-10 victory over the Yankees. The game was a slugfest from the very start as 10 runs crossed the plate in just the first inning.

Andy Frost, in relief of Tribe hurlers John Glynn and Brian Costello, threw four strong innings of shutout ball to notch his third win of the season.

Mark Hashem took the loss, with Tom Tormey and Scott Powers pitching in.

The Indians banged out 14 hits by eight different players. Jeff Smith led all Indian batters with two doubles to drive in three runs. Jamie O'Brien, Joe Hurley and Matt Shine also had a pair of safeties.

Pat Breen and Paul Davies combined for five of the Yanks eight hits, driving in six runs. Davies is now 7-for-10 in the last three games.

Catchers Tim Smith (Yanks) and Matt Shine (Indians) were defensive standouts for their respective clubs.

Tigers 11 - Twins 5

The Tigers sent 14 men to the plate in the fourth inning rallying from a 5-1 deficit. They pounded out 12 hits with Earl Abdo, Jamie Clark, Scott Wallace, John Moossa and Mike Hein collecting the big hits.

Scott Wallace pitched the first three innings to pick up the win, with Abdo picking up a save allowing just one hit the rest of the way. Ray and Dave Rourke starred defensively.

Orioles 4 - Red Sox 2

The Orioles and Red Sox hooked up in an old fashioned pitchers' duel, sending the game into extra innings before it was decided. The Orioles pushed across two runs in the top of the seventh and held on to beat the Sox 4-2.

Mike Smith started the seventh inning uprising with a bunt single. He moved to second on an infield out and proceeded to third on an error. Then with men on second and third, Allan Reeder's single delivered the inning margin for the O's.

Kevin Henderson and Reeder were the Orioles' hurlers, while Gerry Nassiff and Greg Devoir were the Sox pitchers. Nassiff had three hits to lead all hitters. John Gilmartin and Geoff Wood stood out defensively.

Yankees 13 - Orioles 2

The Yankees had a field day with Oriole pitching, banging out 13 hits and routing the O's 13-2.

Mark Hashem threw five strong innings allowing just one hit before yielding to Pat Breen who mopped up.

Hashem, Tom Tormey, Paul Davies, Josh Malitsky and Pat Breen all had two hits for the Yanks. Allan Reeder had the Orioles' two hits.

Tigers 8 - White Sox 4

The Tigers put everything together and for the first time since the beginning of the season played errorless ball enroute to a 8-4 win over the White Sox.

Mike Hein and Dave Rourke handled the Tiger pitching limiting the Sox to just six hits while striking out six.

Ray Rourke and John Moosa aced the Tiger hitter with two hits apiece. Rourke also swiped three bases. Frank Poore collected three safeties for the White Sox. Scott Wallace, Dave Rourke and David

'Butley' Vickers were defensive standouts.

Orioles 6 - Twins 3

The Orioles picked up their second win of the second half with a 6-3 win over the Twins.

Dave Curtis picked up his third win with relief help from Chris Concemi.

Chris Nelson and Pat Kelley were the Orioles' defensive standouts, while Chris McAnally stood out for the Twins.

Red Sox 2 - Indians 1

Ten-year-old Mark Foley drove in what proved to be the game winning hit with a two run single, as the Red Sox best the Indians 2-1 in a tremendous pitching duel.

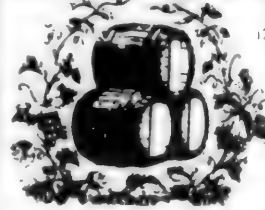

Gerry Nassiff took the win. Indian pitcher Jeff Smith was equal to the task, striking out a season high 15 batters

Foley was the offensive star of the game with two singles good for two RBI's. Joe Hurley and Smith had the big Indian hits.

The Very Best Pets

The Andover-North Andover YMCA sponsored its first annual Pet Show recently and a surprising variety of pets turned up. Photos clockwise from upper left: Matthew Beuhler, 12 Westwind Road, displays his pet white mouse "Squeaky," who took first prize for "Smallest in Show"; Three-year-old J.J. McKain, 165 Shawsheen Road, holds tight to his "Most Original Pet" Emily, a two-month-old goat; first prize for "Fluffiest in Show" went to Marshmallow, a rabbit owned by Kathleen and Elaine O'Brien, 3 Sutherland St.; and "Wag-gles" is held by his owner Kurt Ballou, 22 Woburn St.

FEEL A NEW SENSE OF ADVENTURE

It's more than just a craze. It's a feeling. And, oh so much fun when you discover the world of wheels.

With your new bicycle, the Sunday drive will become a whole new experience. Stumbling across a terrific garage sale will become a "find" instead of a parking problem. Traveling across town will become an adventure instead of a waste of gas.

In fact, any jaunt on your bicycle, be it long or short, will become a pleasure in itself. Which makes the going as much fun as the getting there.

During their stay from June 8-12, these students will have explored the world of nature in their outside class assisted by teachers, Jay Darrin and Lester Taylor.

The annual freshman class social took place on Friday evening, June 5, from 7:15-11:15. The entire freshman class and faculty participated in this exciting event. The cafeteria was decorated with sea gulls, shells, boats, lighthouses, star fishes and waves to create an atmosphere like the seashore to portray this year's theme of "sailing."

After completing the long receiving line of teachers and their spouses, everyone was free to enjoy the buffet and were later welcomed to join the dance led by a marvelous live band. Susan Burke enchanted the class when she sang "Evergreen" which she dedicated to her graduating freshman class and Peter, "Disco Pete" Comeau boogied away to a tune to demonstrate his disco talents to the class. The teachers also joined in the activity by forming a chorus to sing, "New York, New York," under the direction of Bill Fleischman with lead singer, Mr. McCarthy.

There was an open bar, which served Coke, of course, and the courtyard served as a salvation to the heat of the evening.

KENWOOD
STEREO FOR YOUR CAR

Put more computer-guided automatic features into your car with Kenwood's new, advanced KRC-721 Stereo Cassette/Tuner.

The heart of this advanced car stereo cassette/tuner is a sophisticated microprocessor. It performs automatic digital display, station search-and-hold operations for you. In addition, Kenwood's computer-controlled ANRC (Automatic Noise Reduction Control) automatically changes your FM operating modes for you to extend your listening range. There's nothing left for you to do except stop by and see the car stereo that's almost human.

Kenwood's new KAC-727 Stereo Amplifier for the extra power you need — in your car or van.

When Kenwood rated their new 30-watt car stereo power amplifier, they did it based on a nominal battery supply of 13.8 volts. But at normal driving speeds, it reaches more than 40 watts. That's the power you need to provide a reserve to prevent clipping and enable the stereo inside your car to reach the state-of-the-art. Stop by for the power you need.

Easing Homeowner Traumas

There are two occasions in a homeowner's life which can be deemed grossly traumatic: selling your home, or receiving a phone call from the IRS stating you have been "chosen" to be audited. Good record keeping for the homeowner will minimize the traumatic effects of both. Here are some helpful hints:

File copies of all ownership papers — your mortgage, cancelled checks showing home purchase costs, and so forth. Also keep all evidence of home improvements — receipts, contracts, and cancelled checks. The purchase costs and home improvement bills will affect how much capital gains tax you'll owe when you sell the house. Also hang onto all evidence of closing costs, buying and selling expenses, and permanent home improvements.

Document maintenance costs for fixing up your home within 90 days of the sale. Many of these items can be deducted from your capital gains and reduce the amount of tax you'll have to pay on the profit.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at THE HOWE AGENCY, 4 Punchard Ave., Andover. Phone: 475-5100. We're here to help.

Approval Accorded The Routine

As the 1981 annual town meeting came to a close in East Junior High Memorial Auditorium Monday night, after four sessions stretched out over three weeks, voters approved a number of non-controversial articles, including several routine matters that appear on the warrant each year.

Townpeople okayed a $30,000 study of the groundwater supply near the town's former landfill site off Chandler Road, under Article 58, inserted by the Board of Health. Town Manager Jared S.A. Clark explained that the detailed study would put to rest any fears that the water supply had been contaminated.

Voters also unanimously approved Article 65, which inserts regulations governing fire lanes into the town bylaw.

Town meeting agreed to grant an easement to Software International for its Elm Square building for $1,000, under Article 77. An 18-foot section of one wall of that building, formerly owned by the Standex Corp., abuts Main Street and encroaches on three to seven inches of town property.

Without the easement, the company could be required to remove the building, or tear down the wall, which is a bearing wall. The manager pointed out that granting the easement would cause no harm to the town — "We will receive some small tidy sum, however," Clark added.

And finally, voters sailed through the last eight articles on the annual warrant, approving them all. Article 78 accepted the town report; Article 79 lapsed $31,411 in unexpended balances in the treasury; and Article 80 authorized the assessors to use $2,542,892 in free cash to reduce the 1981-82 tax rate, and to effect appropriations made at this year's town meeting.

Under Article 81, townspeople approved a change in the state bidding law that raises from $2,000 to $4,000 the ceiling for accepting competitive bids. Above that amount, the town must request sealed bids. Clark said the law was meant to reflect inflation since the $2,000 ceiling was first set.

Article 83 authorizes the town to issue tax anticipation notes; Article 83, to accept state Chapter 90 funds; Article 84, to accept donations, anonymous and otherwise, for the anti-crime Community Watch program; and finally, Article 85 authorizes the payment of $2,390 in unpaid bills.

With that vote, taken at 9:45 p.m., Town Counsel Alfred Daniels moved to dissolve the 1981 annual town meeting — a motion approved by the voters with a hearty "aye" before they headed for the doors.
